FDR, CHURCHILL PROMISE TO DIVERT NAZIS FROM RUSSIA

Rommel's Forces Closing In on Matruh

VITAL BATTLE FOR MID-EAST CONTROL OPENS

British Armies Reorganized For Imperial Stand Against Axis Onslaught.

U. S. BOMBERS WIN TIME

Russians Report They Have Stemmed German Advance On Kharkov Front.

(By Associated Press)

Italian headquarters said today that Axis motorized forces "have made contact with the defenses of Matruh," indicating that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had opened his grand assault in the four-day-old battle of Egypt.

Matruh, 130 miles inside Egypt, is the main British stronghold barring Rommel's path to the rich delta lands of the Nile and the Suez canal.

With mastery of the entire Middle East perhaps hanging in the balance, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's British imperial armies were said to have been reorganized and reinforced to meet the Axis onslaught.

Dispatches from Cairo said damaging blows by U. S. Army and RAF bombers had already gained precious hours for the realignment of the hard-hit British Eighth army, worn by the long retreat across the sands of the Libyan desert.

Striking at Rommel's major Libyan bases at Tobruk and Bengasi, American and British airmen were said to have hampered the flow of vital food, water, oil and munitions to the Axis invaders, delaying the lightning pace of Rommel's advance.

An Italian communique emphasized the "repeated and violent encounters with enemy bomber and fighter formations," and asserted that Axis planes had shot down 43 British aircraft while anti-aircraft de-

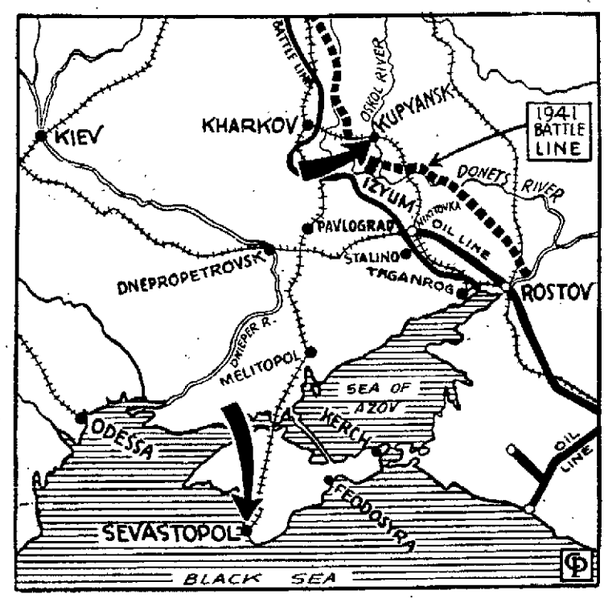
Soviets Check Invaders; Egypt's Defense Leaders Meet



In fierce hand-to-hand fighting Russian Marines today had stemmed a German trust at battered Sevastopol while to the north their comrades had checked a Caucasus aimed thrust on the Kharkov front near Kupyansk, as shown on the map above at left. In northern Egypt where Axis columns were massing within 15 miles of the anchor of the British line at Matruh, Sir Claude Auchinleck (shown right, in the photo at right) meets Maj. Gen. Russel Maxwell, chief of the United States military forces in North Africa. These two generals head the defense of Egypt against Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

SIGN UP TODAY IN NEW DRAFT REGISTRATION

Youths, 18 to 20½, Begin to Enroll In 5th Selective Service Summons.

EXPECT 1,400 IN CLASS

August Service Calls Will Include Men Now In 1-B Deferred Bracket.

Richland county's young men in the age bracket between 18 and 20 and one-half years of age—approximately 1,400 in number, today started signing up in the nation's fifth registration for selective service.

Today's registration opened at noon and was to close at 6 p. m. Board officials estimated that approximately half of those in the county within the age limit would register today, and the other half next Tuesday, when registration will continue from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Only those 20 years old or more may be called for military service. Since this group comprises roughly one-fifth of those called upon to register, it was estimated that the two-day registration will add 250 to 300 names to the boards' lists of men subject to immediate military service.

In another draft development today, the three Richland county boards received preliminary advice on size of the August call for men. For the first time, this call will include a specified number of 1-B's, men heretofore deferred because of minor physical defects. These men will not be called to actual combat duty, board officials said, but instead will be assigned to service in supply depots, as cooks, and in other non-combat duties.

The August call will be lower than the unusually-heavy July call which the boards have received, the officials were advised. The 1-B's will form only a comparatively small percentage of the August contingents.

Future groups leaving Mansfield will come under a new sys-

Leaders Seek Reduction of Submarine Toll

Opening of Second Front Seen In Joint Statement But Time and Place Remain Secret; Prime Minister Flies Back To England Following Talks.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a joint statement today promised that forthcoming operations by the United Nations "will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

The statement, issued after the safe return of the prime minister to England, also expressed hope that as a result of the conferences held by the two leaders in Washington "the respective navies will further reduce the toll" of Axis submarines preying on Allied merchant shipping.

"We recognize and applaud the Russian resistance to the main attack being made by Germany and we rejoice in the magnificent resistance of the Chinese army," the statement said.

"Detailed discussions were held with our military advisers on methods to be adopted against Japan and the relief of China."

Diversion of German strength from the Russian front presumably would be accomplished by creation of a second European front in the west.

Noting that "exact plans, for obvious reasons, cannot be disclosed," Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill merely said that "the coming operations which were discussed in detail at our Washington conferences, between ourselves and our respective military advisers, will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

They were careful not to say where or when the operations will begin.

"There is no doubt in their minds that the over-all picture is more favorable to victory than it was either in August or December of last year," the joint statement said, referring to two previous meetings of the president and the prime minister.

"While submarine warfare on

JAPS RELEASE PASTOR, WIFE

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Matti to Arrive In August to Visit Mansfield Relatives.

Held as prisoners of war for several weeks by the Japanese, Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Matti, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. E. C. Jenkins, 426 West Third street, have been released as exchange prisoners and are due to arrive in the United States Aug. 20, Mrs. Jenkins had learned today.

Rev. Matti, former pastor at Mt. Gilead has been a missionary of the Friends church in China for the past 18 years. He and Mrs. Matti are believed to have been stationed at Nanking, China, when Japan attacked the United States last December. Nanking is a short distance inland from Shanghai which was taken by the Japs shortly after the outbreak of the war.

Last Thursday, friends of another Mansfield missionary, Newton Carl Elder, learned that Newton and his family were among the 629 Americans scheduled to return from Japanese-held territory under exchange arrangements.

Rev. and Mrs. Matti have not been able to communicate with

Predicts Drastic Act To Conserve Rubber

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Sheridan Downey (D., Cal.) today predicted early announcement of a drastic rubber conservation program which will call for national gasoline rationing and may empower the president to requisition private automobiles and trucks.

"It is apparent that the scrap rubber drive is falling so far below the delusive optimistic estimates that drastic measures will have to be invoked," said Downey.

Gloomy pictures of the gasoline and fuel outlook in the east also were painted by informed members of congress with the result that many abandoned early hope of avoiding stringent new rubber conservation measures.

While the first week of the rubber scrap drive yielded only 100,000 tons, Downey said that 600,000 to 700,000 tons of scrap are needed for military and essential civilian use in the next two years.

Downey introduced a bill authorizing the president to buy or requisition private automobiles to assure transportation for defense workers, doctors and others classed as essential.

"In addition to conserving rubber, we have in 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 old automobiles highly valuable scrap," said Downey. "This includes steel, copper, zinc and other metals. If these cars were in Germany or Japan they'd probably lock them in safety-deposit vaults because of their value."

Sen. Mead (D., N. Y.), said that the drive of east coast mayors for extension of gasoline rationing westward will be pressed. The object, he said, would be to cause the middle west to participate in the transportation pool needed to get fuel oil to the east to prevent citizens from virtual freezing next winter.

He said that reports indicate that there may be a shortage of 55,000,000 barrels of oil in the east by the end of next winter.

2 INJURED IN AUTO MISHAPS

Car Demolished by Train In Third Accident But Driver, Companion Escape.

Two persons were injured, one seriously, in automobile accidents in and near Mansfield last night. In another accident early today an automobile was demolished by a passenger train shortly after stalling on the Bowman street Pennsylvania railroad crossing.

Thrown from his car when the vehicle crashed into a bank north of Mansfield last night James T. Roberts, 25, of Shelby received a fractured skull. He was alone at the time.

He was taken to Mansfield General hospital where he remained in a semi-conscious state this morning. His condition was reported as "fair" by hospital attendants.

State highway patrolmen said that Roberts failed to negotiate a curve on State Route 545, five miles north of Mansfield. When the car ran off the highway and hit the bank Roberts was thrown PREPARE: U. S. Army Air Force Units Plan Attack on Germany

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—It was reliably disclosed today that United States Army Air Force units are in the British Isles laying the groundwork for American participation in the mass raids on Germany.

Nothing has yet been said to indicate that aircraft have arrived to equip the units for actual operations.

Precedent indicates that the first public announcement of United States participation in the European air warfare will be by the blast of bombs on Germany.

The first official hint of the U. S. air crews' presence in Britain was given Thursday in a statement by Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander for the European war theater, that pilots were arriving "in rapidly increasing numbers."

Well-informed air observers had known for weeks that air crews were taking shape at a base somewhere in the British Isles, but security reasons prevented disclosure.

The nature and extent of the preparations for operation of American fliers and aircraft in the big assaults on German war industry still are secrets.

It has been stated, however, that United States officers will operate independently of the RAF, although collaborating with it in a long-range bombing plan.

HITS 150 TONS

Rubber Collection Progresses; Chairman Makes New Plea.

Richland county's scrap rubber pile climbed today to the 150-ton mark—three-fourths of the 200-ton goal set by the county scrap rubber collection committee.

C. L. Hartenfels, chairman of the county drive, reported that 33,250 pounds were collected yesterday at filling stations in and near Mansfield. Of this amount, 30,136 pounds were paid for at the rate of a penny a pound, and 3,114 pounds were donated.

Hartenfels warned that next Tuesday is the date set for wind-up of the campaign, and appealed for an intensified effort by all county residents during the final days of the drive.

Merchants Shape Up Program for 'White Out' Drive

In an attempt to obtain wholehearted participation by all 350 retail establishments of the city, a special committee named by the Retail Merchants association to arrange for Mansfield's observance of "Retailers for Victory" month today started contacting the proprietors and managers of the firms.

The event, continuing through July, will get under way at noon next Wednesday when merchants will halt sale of their regular merchandise for 15 minutes and stage an intensive sale of war savings bonds and stamps.

The association committee, of which R. M. Calene is chairman, has proclaimed the occasion a "White-Out for Victory." Other members of the group are Merle Pecht, association president, M. J. Stanley, Paul M. Eliot, and Joy A. Herbert.

Each store is being given a quota of war bond and stamp sales for July that is four per cent of its normal July volume of business. Full details of the Wednesday sale period will be announced tomorrow, Calene said.

EXILE LIVES IN OHIO

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Lithuania's exiled president, Antanas Smetona, has been living with his family on Cleveland's east side for the past two months, it was disclosed here.

Charges Lewis Attempts to Retard Labor, Comforts Axis

Charges that John L. Lewis, former CIO president, has made "deliberate attempts to retard the progress of labor's part in the war effort" and that his efforts are "certain to give aid and comfort to the Axis powers" were made in a speech prepared for delivery at the mid-year convention of District 1 of the United Rubber Workers of America here today.

The charges were made by N. H. Eagle, District No. 1 executive secretary, in an address he was to give before 300 district delegates from Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, and parts of Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland who opened a two-day meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel this morning.

Eagle asserted that Lewis was following a course designed to bring disunity in the house of labor and stated that the general executive board of the international union has gone on record condemning Lewis and reaffirming support of President Roosevelt and CIO President Phillip Murray.

"There have been reports that some of Mr. Lewis's agents have been at work in this district, trying to create trouble in some of the locals of this organization," said Eagle, "I want to say that the members of our organization will tolerate no such disruption. We are not going to tolerate trouble making.

A 15-year-old farm hand who allegedly slashed two cows and destroyed a new hay rope on the Russell Daubenspeck farm southeast of Shelby because he didn't like farm work was to be returned to Mansfield today from Mt. Vernon to face a delinquency charge in juvenile court.

The youth, who told Daubenspeck he was 19 years old when he went to work on the farm five days ago, disappeared yesterday after Daubenspeck found the two cows injured and the hay rope slashed.

Daubenspeck told Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman that there was a slash in one cow's ear and another animal's upper lip had been cut. The farmer was OPA Expected to Double Ration Shortly.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The office of price administration may soon —possibly within two weeks— double the rationing of sugar, the sugar committee of the port of New York disclosed today.

David T. Lamond, president of the committee, said that information received from the OPA headquarters in Washington indicated that the sugar allotment would be increased to one pound a week per person.

The sugar industry, which maintains the rationing has glutted the market, is campaigning for the increased sugar allotment.

SHOW: Spectacular U. S. Army Maneuver Seen by Churchill

(By United Press)

FORT JACKSON, S. C.—(Delayed)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill sat in a shelter under a barrage of live artillery shells today to go through battle maneuvers with American forces that may be fighting soon alongside British troops "not as invaders, but as liberators."

War as our soldiers fight it was enacted with super-realism for the British leader here at the world's largest infantry post. Interrupting for a day his Washington conferences with President Roosevelt, he spent the day watching troops from the Eighth motorized division, and the 30th and 70th infantry divisions wage simulated warfare that lacked little in reality but the dead and wounded.

(Publication of this account of his visit to South Carolina on Wednesday was withheld until Churchill's safe return to Great Britain.)

He saw transport planes swoop low and spilled more than 500 ready-to-fight parachute troops almost in his ample lap.

He crouched in a dusty dugout and saw a peaceful little valley pulverized by heavy artillery and by tanks whose ugly-muzzled 75MM guns whammed out live shells.

He saw harmless - looking scrub trees within a stone's throw suddenly come alive with machine guns that set big fires with their red-gleaming tracer bullets.

And when it was over, Churchill said he was "enormously impressed by the thoroughness and precision with which the formation of a great wartime army of the United States is proceeding."

"The day will come when British and American armies will march into countries not as in-

Visit Peacock Farm In Sunday N-J

You don't have to go to a zoo to see a peacock . . .

Just outside Mansfield is a farm whose owner raises the brightly-plumed birds as a combined business and hobby. Tomorrow's edition of the News-Journal brings you pictures and story of how he has raised peafowl for 14 years. You'll find interesting facts, too, about the habits of the birds.

Girls prepare to work in war jobs . . .

And 160 of them, garbed in slacks and cotton blouses, are getting their training at the NYA residence center near Mifflin. Camera and reporter this week visited the center. In the Sunday edition they bring you photgraphs and text describing the shops, barracks, and recreation hall. There are interviews with several of the girls and a description of the program.

A copy of the original seal of the city of Mansfield has been found . . .

It's not the seal you see at city hall, the one selected in a contest some time ago, but one adopted by the city more than half a century ago. It turned up in an interesting collection of old city directories. Tomorrow you can see the seal and read about the directories in an informative Sunday feature.

In addition . . .

There'll be other features, too, but you won't want to miss the picture of the first Masonic picnic held in the city.

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT M'KENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

One can't quarrel with the prediction by London military experts that the next week bids fair to be one of the most critical of the war for the Allies, though personally I should go further and say that it also will be one of the most fateful for the Axis.

The concensus of military observers is that Hitler must win this year or not at all. His correlated offensives against the British in Egypt and the Reds at the gateway to the Caucasus represent the begining of a mighty effort to drive a wedge which will give him victory before winter again brings its icy terrors to the Soviet front.

Another week won't see the end of the great battles which now are swelling, but the speeding events of the immediate future are likely to silhouette the climax of Hitler's attempt to dominate the world.

The Nazi fuehrer right now either is building himself a pyramid of triumph, or he is digging his own grave which about the time the first snows sweep the Russian steppes will be ready and waiting for the Allies to push him in. He may still play Hamlet for a bit after that, but his number will be up.

But here it is important to note that while we can see the meaning of this historic moment, there is no assurance (or so it seems to me) that the present offensives will continue to be the channels through which our destiny will flow. The Allies must be prepared for a lightning change of tactics by Hitler if things don't go well with his scheme of clamping a great pair of pincers on Egypt from the east and from the west.

If Field Marshal Rommel's sensational drive should bog down, or if Field Marshal Von Bock should find the going too hard in Russia, we may expect Hitler to shift to a different field.

He has only about four months left in which to turn the trick.

Even if things go well for the Germans on the Russian front, it should cause no surprise if Hitler suddenly lashed out at Syria with an attempt to invade that country by air and secure a base from which to strike at the Allies both in Egypt and in the countries to the east. Such a move would bolster the operations of both Rommel and Bock and would create a fresh emergency for the Allies. Certainly if the Russian front holds, a Nazi attack on Syria would be a logical development.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway's American Way.

THESE days the orators keep telling us via print, microphone and congress that we're fighting to preserve "the American way of life," and certainly they're right, though repetitious.

And from where I sit, Broadway is as typical of the American way as any one strip of territory in the land. Just as nothing could be more English than Piccadilly Circus, and in the good old days the Montmartre reflected the spirit, untrammeled, of La Belle France, so you've got a solid and vivid hunk of Americana in Broadway.

Kilgallen

It's difficult and desolate to picture New York without its Great White Way, and I imagine that every part of the country would miss it in some way if the Axis whacked us, and the heils and heels of Hitler took over. Not that that is going to happen. I'm justing pointing out why Broadway is one of the strictly American items for which we're fighting.

* * *

The very fact that Broadway affords anyone who has the stuff the chance to become a star makes it a glittering citadel of democracy. Oh, sure, it helps to have connections, to know somebody. And don't let anyone tell you that there's no such thing as a lucky break on Broadway. But in the long run talent will tell, and it's the talent that keeps America smiling, even when it's fighting for its life.

Broadway's American way is Joan Crawford signing autographs outside the Imperial theater, and Errol Flynn pushing through the mas of urchins who wait to maul him outside 21 . . . It's Broadway Rose . . . It's even Sherman Billingsley's making the Stork club tough for everyone to get in—because that's how he gets more in than any of his competitors . . . Yes, life may be magnified a bit, or it may even toss off a reflection like those crazy mirrors at Coney Island, but you can see all of America within a rhinestone's throw—or even a Paula Stone's throw — of Times Square.

The American way on the Stem finds a hot dog stand every other 10 feet, and the doggie is only a nickel, too . . . And trust the canny American business man to glamorize the poor, defenseless hamburger at such super-grottos as Hamburger Heaven, the Hamburger Studio, et (pardon me, I mean "ate") al. Broadway is nervy enough to charge a dollar and a half for a hamburger, if you're foolish or rich or drunk enough to pay it.

Other American ways on Broadway—and the list would never end—must include the circus traveling down to entertain the crippled kiddies at Bellevue . . . Wild West films at the Central . . . Gene Autry strolling in a 30-gallon hat . . . Aisle-jiving at the Paramount . . . Quiz programs all over the air . . . Whistling in the lobby of the Metropolitan Opera House . . . Constance Moore, and lots of other girls from Hollywood, slackening the pace of passersby in their slacks . . . The gorilla (and I do mean gorilla) warfare of some of the Manhatatn taxicabs . . . The expertness with which most of the hackies slither through traffic . . . Loud speaker systems . . . Jewelry shop auctioneers . . . The brother-can-you-spare-a-dime diehards . . . Jimmy Durante's nose, Eddie Cantor's eyes, and all of Rita Hayworth.

* * *

Broadway's American way is the picturesque parlance of the publication, Variety . . . Borscht-a-colas . . . Broadway's most Broadwayish character—Broadway Sam—in cowboy regalia . . . The numbers racket . . . The case of burlesque . . . Margie Hart and Sally Rand and Gypsy Rose Lee . . . Beny Goodman and Artie Shaw and Guy Lombardo, and Eddy Duchin and Tommy Dorsey and Kay Kyser . . . The ads for anything under the amusement world's sun in Billboard . . . Abbott and Costello, the Howards, Moore and Gaxton, Ethel Barrymore and the Lunts.

It's the mounted cop's growl to J. P. Morgan's chauffeur to move on in the theater belt at the 11 o'clock "break" . . . The orange drink stand clerks' gibs at pretty girls passing . . . The first-nighters who pay $11 for a pair of ducats to a show which will be playing to a houseful of passes the next night . . . It's Irving Berlin humming one of his own tunes down the Rialto . . . It's the Palace Beach and the Jacobs Beach and the Sardi's Beach sun-bathers.

SUGAR VESSEL SURPRISES SUB, SENDS IT DOWN

U-Boat Rises Near American Craft; Ship's Second Shell Finds Mark.

(By International News Service)

A FLORIDA PORT — Daring the dangers of submarine warfare in West Indian waters to replenish sugar bowls of the nation, an American sugar ship brought its cargo to a home port after it sank an enemy submarine, it was announced today.

The submarine inadvertently surfaced within gun range of the freighter outside a little Cuban port.

Capt. James E. Ellison of Upper Darby, Pa., said obviously the submarine crew did not realize it was near the armed merchantman.

In the first morning light, he said, the lookout of the five-man gun crew sighted the submarine, about 400 feet away, at about the same moment its crew seemed to discover the presence of the freighter.

That the submersible's crew was ignorant of the nearness of the American ship was evident from the fact that it was not in position to train its deck gun or its torpedoes on the freighter, the sugar skipper said.

From the conning tower, however, came a shower of machine-gun fire, as the astonished enemy sprayed the freighter in aimless fashion.

On observing the submarine, the gun crew lookout aroused his four companions, who slept on the deck nearby, to be present for possible action, and they "sent three shells for sugar," as the seamen expressed it, at the undersea craft.

The first missile went over its mark; the second struck the submarine below its waterline, and a third ricocheted. In the near-dawn, the enemy craft was seen to keel over, and go down after the second shell exploded against its side, the skipper related.

Captain Ellison said there was no doubt about the destruction of the submarine.

No one on the ship was struck, although a bullet was found imbedded in the master's cabin, and another knocked the lock off a door.

Other ships in the area later reported the appearance of heavy oil slicks where the engagement occurred, the captain said.

LORAIN STRIKE MEETING CALLED

3,500 Steelworkers Convene Today to Discuss Wages After Walkout.

(By Associated Press)

LORAIN—Members of the CIO United Steelworkers of America were called to a mass meeting today to discuss the unauthorized strike of approximately 3,500 pipe mill employes of the National Tube company, who are seeking to enforce unspecified wake demands.

Workers, union officials and federal labor conciliators met for three hours last night but announced no developments.

William F. Donovan, district director of the union, has termed the walkout, which began Thursday, "illegal" and in violation of a union contract signed several months ago. The contract provides either the management or union must give 60 days notice of desire to reopen it and calls for the normal steel industry basic minimum wage of 72½ cents an hour. The pipe mill average, said a company spokesman, is between 95 cents and $1 an hour.

The company announced last night that E. G. Price, local superintendent, had sent a telegram to Donovan referring to his characterization of the strike as "illegal" and declaring "you now declare that resumption of work is dependent upon this management's agreement to start immediate negotiations on the settlement of grievances.

"This management," the telegram continued, "has consistently and speedily during the entire life of the labor agreement discussed and settled grievances. When the labor agreement is again in force, following resumption of work, this management will immediately meet, discuss and attempt to settle any alleged grievances in accordance with contract procedure."

TROOPS OF AEF AGREE QUEEN'S 'A SWELL GIRL' AFTER VISIT

(By Associated Press)

WITH THE UNITED STATES FORCES IN NORTHERN IRELAND—United States troops from almost all states seemed pretty well agreed today that Queen Elizabeth is "a swell girl" after putting on a show for the king and queen which drew congratulations from the king because of its "impressive efficiency."

Demonstrating everything from bridge-building to doughnut-making, the American soldiers staged an all-out mock battle for the royal visitors on their three-day trip to Northern Ireland. Their majesties rode in jeeps and tanks, and examined guns, gas masks and field kitchens.

The performance of the Americans led one member of their majesties' entourage to remark: "It was the best show put on during the war and the king seems happier than I have ever seen him."

When it was all over the king asked Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, commander of American forces in Northern Ireland, to convey to the troops his "hearty congratulations on the impressive efficiency" with which the demonstration and operations were performed.

The king and queen started their day by reviewing part of the armored force and then took a ride in tanks over pits and bunkers as a make-believe battle swept about them. They saw anti-tank gunners score 14 direct hits on a moving target.

The queen stepped up to Sergt. Reuben Krage of Elyria, O., and asked him about his Howitzer. "It's a beautiful weapon," the sergeant told the queen, adding later:

"She's a swell girl. She talked like she knew nothing about guns."

Fifty girls participated in the program and a number of parents witnessed the demonstrations. Mrs. Norma Miklich, program director of the Y. W. C. A., headed arrangements for the event. She was assisted by the various camp counselors.

HITS RATIONING

Bricker Says Plan Will Not Aid East Coast Fuel Shortage.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— "Gasoline rationing in Ohio and other midwestern states will not aid the eastern seaboard's petroleum shortage," Governor Bricker contended today in answer to recommendations made to Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold Ickes and Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman in Washington yesterday by a group of eastern mayors.

"We were told by federal officials at the governor's conference in Asheville, N. C., that gasoline rationing was instituted only to conserve rubber and that there is no shortage of petroleum," Bricker said.

Up and Down the Street

Richard Campbell of Crestline learned in municipal court this morning that it was not very wise to toss a plate of hot spaghetti into the face of a companion earlier today at a downtown restaurant. Campbell was arrested by a Mansfield policeman who happened to be in the restaurant at the time. The Crestline man pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge when arraigned in municipal court and was fined $10 and costs.

While you are checking your attic for scrap rubber there are a couple of other things for which you might keep your eyes open. Harold McCuen, director of the Children's theater and Junior Workshop, is hunting old music and costumes for a "Gay Nineties Revue" which pupils of the two groups will stage Aug. 14. One classic composition which McCuen particularly wants and has been unable to find is the heart rending ballad, "Don't Go Into the Lion's Cage Tonight, Mother." Mansfielders who have clothing or music typical of the period are asked to call Mrs. C. O. Anglin, 110 Helen avenue.

Residents along Sturges avenue between First street and Glessner avenue can sit on their front porches these mornings and see some amusing antics by the numerous squirrels in the big shade trees along the street. Two of the frisky little animals scampered across the street this morning and then played a hide-and-seek game with each other around the trunk of a big tree for several minutes. The animals have dens in the trees and frequently come down to lawns and back porches in search of food.

Mansfielders taking an evening train east last night were given a royal send-off by the respective parties that were down to the station to see both Margaret Cayford, Country Day school director, and Spencer Draffan, Princeton student, leave for home and university. Just for the fun of it Draffan's friends showered the departing student with rice and everybody had a good time.

Eliot received announcement of the new plan, designed to facilitate bond-purchasing by residents of farm areas, from the Treasury Department at Washington. Details concerning the carriers' sale of bonds were outlined to postoffices in a recent postal bulletin.

Purchasers are to pay for the bonds at the time of making the applications for their purchase. Payment may be made in cash or war savings stamps, or by check. The carrier will issue a receipt, and will deliver the bond later.

Any fourth class postoffice not now designated to issue war savings bonds will be so designated on request of the postmaster, the postal bulletin stated.

LEGISLATORS SPEED ACTION ON MEASURES

House In Saturday Session As Lawmakers Seek Wednesday Wind-Up.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Congress today turned on legislative pressure to appropriate in three working days some forty-five and a half billion dollars for the new government year starting next Wednesday.

In fiscal year-end fashion, the house held a Saturday session in its drive to reach agreement on major appropriation measures which have been deadlocked for days in conference committees.

Biggest single item in the pending list—but not in controversy—is the $42,820,003,067 armp appropriation bill to meet the needs of the military establishment in fiscal 1943. It is now in the senate after having pasesd the house with war-time dispatch—the largest appropriation bill ever laid before any legislative body.

Unless waning time forces adoption of a resolution to permit government departments to continue expenditures pending enactment of appropriations, all but $96,500,000 of the total pending $45,551,618,404 must be pased by the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

With $95,168,336,981 in war appropriations and contract authorizations already enacted since the session began in January—including the $8,550,000,000 naval expansion authorization sent to the White House today—pending appropriations swell to a grand total of $140,719,955,385 the amount congress will have pfovided in seven months.

Here are the appropriations pending:

$1,058,951,660 labor-federal security bill, including the controversial $75,818,000 CCC fund.

$680, 395,695 agriculture department, in dispute in the wheat parity fight.

$282,548,000 emergency relief and WPA bill.

$186,924,998 interior department bill.

In conference committee deadlocks, the agriculture department, interior, state, commerce and judiciary, and labor and federal security appropriation bills were giving house and senate members most trouble.

'Blackout Strike' Ends, 10,000 Go Back to Work

PONTIAC, Mich.—(INS)—Scarcely 24 hours after day-shift workers found four Pontiac plants of the Yellow Coach and Truck company closed to them by picket lines, operations were resumed today at the factories, said to constitute the world's largest producers of army trucks.

Some 10,000 persons figured in the strike which protested a feared loss of 18 minutes pay resulting from a halt in plant operations Wednesday during a practice blackout of the Pontiac area.

Resumption of work came after a tentative settlement, subject to ratification by Local 594 of the UAW-CIO, was reached.

Immediate return to work was agreed upon when the company reportedly agreed to pay employes for time lost by the blackout.

Other controversies between the management and the union, including terms of a new contract, are expected to be discussed at conferences scheduled to get under way Monday.

GERMANS VOW REVENGE RAIDS

European theater of operations, had "had a hand" in the attack.

It was apparent that the Germans were trying to draw a reply which would tell them just what Eisenhower was doing and whether planes of the United States Army Air Corps were yet ready to join the Royal Air Force in smashing German cities one by one.

While British planes were ranging over German-occupied territory during the night, bombing airdromes and other targets in offensive operations of limited scale, and a small German plane formation made a savage attack on Norwich, the German radios began blaring threats of vengeance.

"Britain will pay heavily, in due time, for the murderous, barbarous attack on Bremen, where German women and children lost their lives," the Berlin radio said.

"These are terror attacks by barbarians against the crusaders of European culture.

"Maybe Eisenhower, the new commander of American forces in Europe, had a hand in the Bremen attack. The British will pay for all attacks Eisenhower may cause to be launched against the German civilian population.

"The fuehrer many times said he was against bombing civilians, but Churchill and Eisenhower decided to wage war on German women and children. The British population will pay with their lives for every German victim of terror raids."

British planes, in their night operations, centered on the 170-mile stretch of the French invasion coast between Cherbourg and Boulogne.

RAF Attacks Enemy Shipping, Railroads

LONDON—(AP)—British fighter aircraft swept over occupied territory and attacked enemy shipping and railroad objectives last night, the air ministry said today, but most of the big bombers stayed at home.

Some bombers were sent out to lay mines in enemy waters, but there were no reports of raids such as the previous night's 1,000-plane attack against Bremen where fires raged for hours.

German bombers attacked the East Angham city of Norwich briefly last night and lefts fires in residential and shopping areas, the air ministry announced today. Observers expressed the belief the attack was in retaliation for the RAF's Bremen raid.

"Some casualties were caused including a small number of people killed," the air ministry said.

Japs Thwarted In Moresby Raid

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—(INS)—Eighteen Japanese heavy bombers, accompanied by a strong escort of fighter planes, made an unsuccessful attack on the United Nations advanced base at Port Moresby, New Guinea, it was announced today at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

Six to ten enemy planes were damaged so severely that they probably did not return to their base, the communique stated. Four Allied planes were lost, but two of the pilots were saved.

The Japanese attack was directed at the airfield and some bombs fell nearby without causing serious damage.

Additional details on the results of Thursday night's raid on Lae and Salamaua, Japanese bases on the northeast shore of New Guinea, disclosed that damage was much heavier than first reported. An enemy supply ship approaching Lae was bombed and machine-gunned in a low-level attack and two bomb hits were scored.

Chairman J. C. McIntosh said the committee would consider Monday a proposal to employ power shovels and trucks to "mine" the scrap.

the part of the Axis continues to take heavy toll of cargo ships, the actual production of new tonnage is greatly increasing month by month," they said in promising action to cut down the effectiveness of German submarine warfare on Allied shipping.

The statement, released simultaneously in Washington and London, took "full cognizance" of Allied disadvantages and advantages, but on the whole it was an optimistic comment from the two ranking leaders of the United Nations.

"The United Nations have never been in such hearty and detailed agreement on plans for winning the war as they are today," the statement said.

"In the matter of the production of munitions of all kmds," Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill said their surveys gave "on the whole an optimistic picture."

"The previously planned monthly output has not reached the maximum but is fast approaching it on schedule," they said.

"Because of the wide extension of the war to all parts of the world, transportation of the fighting forces, together with the transportation of munitions of war and supplies still constitutes the major problem of the United Nations," the two leaders said.

While Churchill was at the White House, he and the president called in ranking shipping experts of Great Britain and the United States to work out means of solving this major transportation problem. The statement today gave no concrete indication as to what these steps will be.

"The week of conferences between the president and the prime minister covered very fully all of the major problems of the war which is conducted by the United Nations on every continent and in every sea," they said.

"We have taken full cognizance of our disadvantages as well as our advantages. We do not underrate the task. We have conducted our conferences with the full knowledge of the power and resourcefulness of our enemies."

The references in the statement to Russia and China reflected the detailed talks held earlier this week by the president and the prime minister with Dr. T. V. Soong, the Chinese foreign minister, who asked them for added air support, and Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinov.

Hitler Urged To Occupy All of France

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — German military leaders are urging Adolf Hitler to occupy all France to meet the growing threat of an Allied attempt to establish a second front in western Europe, an unusually well-informed foreign source declared today.

At the same time the independent French news agency at Beirut reported that 500,000 Italian soldiers were concentrated in northern Italy ready to move into France to reinforce the German army of occupation.

Intimation the Nazis might be preparing to take over the third of conquered France which still is unoccupied was said to have come through "trustworthy underground channels" — the same channels which recently reported that the Germans were moving heavy guns from the Maginot and Siegfried lines to the French west coast.

The source credited with relaying this information also said he had been informed more than 1,000,000 French residents have been evacuated from the coastal areas in connection with the German defense preparations.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that high speed wears out tires faster and wastes gas.

According to a southern jurist there is no such thing as absolutely free speech—and it's also being rumored around that "personal liberty" has its bounds.

Those optimists who are planning a post-war world to their liking might do well to keep in mind that Hitler is doing the same thing—with probably equal confidence.

Weed-Cutting as 'Civilian Defense'

SOME strange things are being proposed in the name of "civilian defense" and at least one Ohio city is putting its weed-destroying campaign in that category.

Primary purpose, as a contribution to the war effort, is to remove a common cause of hay fever and its associated respiratory ailments.

Persons who are subject to an annual attack of hay fever realize that they are not only miserable through this period but also that they are less efficient in their work.

Just why such an obvious responsibility of property-ownership as weed-cutting should need a war to bring it to public attention is not clear, as there is plenty of law at any time to compel property owners or their agents to keep down the weeds on home premises as well as on vacant lots in city and suburbs.

Few things are more distressing to persons who try to keep their own home surroundings attractive than to have a weed-infested vacant lot alongside, from which seeds are later carried by the wind, to the detriment of all lawns in the vicinity.

Any serious approach to a municipal clean-up cannot ignore the need of placing greater emphasis on weed-cutting —and if this comes within the province of "civilian defense," as some cities construe it, the appeal to patriotism may be more effective than an official warning of intended action under the law.

Avoid Buying 'Scarce' Articles

MARRINER S. ECCLES, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, is asking banks and other financial institutions to "discourage unnecessary purchases of civilian goods," and some professional economists are doing likewise.

Emphasis on such a course is deemed advisable in order to avoid runaway inflation and later disaster, due to coupling greater buying power with restricted production of consumer goods.

This, like many other things, however, could be carried to an extreme that would be almost as disastrous as the ailment it seeks to remedy.

Many people are earning no more than formerly—some not even as much—and these will create no problem of over-buying as they will be hard pressed to pay taxes, buy war bonds, contribute to worthy causes and meet increasing living costs.

If extra earnings of war workers can be brought to near-normal by taxation and investment in war bonds, instead of getting into competition for limited supplies, and if a policy of sensible buying of needed and available merchandise is followed, it would appear that dangerous inflation may be avoided without completely wrecking the merchandising structure of the country.

Buy war bonds, make contributions, pay debts, clear off mortgages, save enough to pay taxes, avoid waste and confine purchases, insofar as possible, to needed merchandise that is plentiful rather than scarce—this would seem to be a safe course of procedure for individuals and families as America girds for greater war efforts.

Ethiopia's Post-War Program

WHILE the war is continuing its destruction elsewhere, one country is devoting its time to post-war upbuilding. This is Ethiopia, conquered by the Italians in 1936 in one of the first aggressive wars of the Axis, and freed in 1941. Haile Selassie, the Ethiopian emperor, in his first occupancy of the throne, had done much to modernize his country. A great deal of this was undone by the Italians, who systematically killed off many of the best Ethiopian officials. The emperor is now trying to recover the lost ground.

In their brief rule, the Italians did one thing for Ethiopia: they built a wide-ranging network of highways and airports.

Ethiopia is getting help. Great Britain has recently made a two-year agreement, by which British judges will sit on Ethiopian courts, British advisers help in the administration, British officers train the army and police force, and the British government will have sweeping rights on Ethiopian territory for war purposes. In effect, these terms merely continue conditions existing since the English took over the country last spring. In return, Ethiopia gets a grant of money and the assurance that England has no designs on her independence.

Losses Teach Costly Lesson

WE HAVE just had another object lesson," says Major George Fielding Eliot, in the New York Tribune, "in the futility of attempting to conduct a vast, worldwide war of coalition by means of loose understandings and hasty improvisations. We have lost our positions in Libya and we shall be lucky if we do not lose Egypt and the Suez Canal."

Walter Lippmann observes: "The reverse in Libya is a grim reminder that battles are not decided merely by quantity of material and troops. There is also quality of command. It is the most critical of all the factors in war."

Very likely centralized and unified command in the critical war situation has been one of the foremost needs considered by the American president and British premier in their Washington talks. The need is obvious.

Coal May Also Be Rationed

FROM the office of Fuel Coordinator Ickes comes word that work is in progress on a coal allocation plan to be put in effect next winter if transportation difficulties hamper deliveries. Coal "allocation" means rationing.

If you will need coal for next winter the time to get it is NOW—while deliveries are assured.

According to a biologist: "The peak of human intelligence is reached at the age of 16"—so it couldn't have been a 16-year-old that just swung around the corner on two wheels.

SACRIFICE

German Enthusiasm Seen Waning

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Americans are talking a lot about the privations they will have to endure if the war continues for years, as seems most likely. "Privation" is too strong a word, yet an accurate one, for it means to be deprived of things, and we are certainly going to be deprived of many things, the liberal use of automobiles being the most glaring at the moment. Not only that, the style of living of most of the middle and upper middle classes is going to take a tumble, due to taxation.

But actually most of our people will be better off. Jobs are plentiful and the pay is good. There is no fear of slack times producing unemployment. Disregard the government figures about 1,750,000 still being unemployed. We have never had a boom when we could not have counted more than that. Jobs are crying for men—and women—not men and women crying for jobs.

* * *

BUT consider what the average German or Japanese thinks about as he or she faces the next few years of war, especially the Germans, for many of them have enjoyed and all of them have heard about a very full life indeed, so far as food, drink and comforts are concerned.

Anyone who has visited German friends, either in the old country or here, knows that. There are few races which enjoy plenty of good food, drink, and comforts more, for they have the faculty of enjoying them without so much of the taint of "keeping up with the Joneses" which spoils the happiness of so many Americans.

What do those normally heavy-eating and warmth-loving Germans think about? We know that in no winter of the war so far has there been sufficient heat to make the civilians of Germany really comfortable. Austria and the other conquered territories have suffered more, but the Germans have been plenty cold.

To the extent they have sacrificed warm clothing and blankets on the pleas of their leaders they will be colder this coming winter. And, being cold themselves, they will be more concerned about what the bitter Russian cold is doing to their boys in the army. (This on the assumption that Russia continues to fight.)

* * *

ENTERING the realm of wishful thinking let us assume that the Russians are able to prevent the Germans from winning any spectacular victories during the summer. This seems possible, if not probable, as we study the reports of American airplanes grounded in Turkey. Incidentally a lot of U. S. planes and skillful crews interned in Turkey might prove quite discouraging to any Nazi plan for short-cutting to the Caucasus through that country.

But with American air power important over the Black Sea area it seems likely that even the capture of Sevastopol may not prove the open door to the oil fields that it once seemed to the German high command. The prospect is not apt to make the average life-loving German, with his belt tightened and his body cold next winter, too enthusiastic about the success of Der Fuehrer.

Feminine 'Intuition'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARE WOMEN "INTUITIVE"? Do they possess a mysterious "instinct" unknown to men which enables them to discern hidden values or perils? And is this feminine "instinct" more reliable than masculine reasoning?

Ninety-nine out of one hundred citizens, regardless of sex, will respond to these questions with a loud "YES"—then follow it up with dramatic incidents showing how Mama Called the Turn. All of which helps to foster as foolish and dangerous a piece of hokum as was ever conceived.

Not only is there no such thing as "feminine intuition," but instinct itself has long ceased to play a part in the human program. Instinct is simply racial memory, deeply embedded in the unconscious mind by endless repetition. It functions in all animals, and it lasts as long as the conditions which caused it persist.

In man's forgotten cave days he, too, probably fell his way about instinctively, as the animals do, finding his food, warding off enemies, caring for his young, by some knewledge that lay deeper than words. But such power has long since departed. Even if it remained it would be useless in a world which is constantly changing.

Today the most complicated scientific tests show that the human animal is born without any instinct whatever, unless it be a slight trace of fear.

This, obviously, rules out the oft-quoted and highly revered "mother instinct." Yet try to convince the average mortal of this fact! He would as soon doubt God Himself as question the "divine intuition of a mother"—a fact which is responsible for more infantile deaths than all the baby diseases put together.

"But surely women reason instinctively," you may cry. "Look at all the proof! See how long it takes a man to figure a thing out while a woman hits the truth in a flash—and see how often men are taken in by rascals, while women see through them in a glance."

Yes, this is true. But it does not prove that woman has mysterious faculties which man does not possess. It merely proves that women and men USE THEIR MINDS DIFFERENTLY.

Basicallly, man-mind and woman-mind are alike, but their training has been as far apart as the poles. Women have led a secluded INDIVIDUALISTIC life. Men have led a social CO-OPERATIVE life. Women were taught to be a law unto themselves. Men were taught to follow the tribal code and convention.

So the thought-pattern was laid far back in forgotten lairs. And so it has continued, though all else seems changed. Today women still think as INDIVIDUALS — men still think as team-mates. When a man reasons, he follows the ancient trail of logic bit by bit. Slowly, carefully, according to ancient ritual, he places together cause and effect. But not so the woman. With one wild swoop she disregards non-essentials and lands on the crucial point.

Is she always right? Of course she isn't. Her ratio of mistakes is as large as the man's. But the fact that she succeeds at all is so overwhelming that her mistakes are overlooked.

To the man it is incredible that success should come by such methods. He cannot, dare not, admit that the woman's reasoning is the same as his own, only more efficient. Such an admission would affront his ego, so he saves his face by conceding that woman, "though lacking in real intelligence," has some primitive power which he does not possess!

So on we go—kidding and being kidded! Some day—maybe!—we'll all grow up and forget our fairy tales.

Breathing Spell After War.

Merit may be seen in the suggestion from the United Nations that drafting a peace treaty be delayed until at least three years after the end of this war. This might eliminate the atmosphere of bitterness which fogged the sessions at Versailles at the end of World War I. Vindictiveness should be allowed to die out.

In the pre-treaty period, it is assumed the victorious United Nations would send food to the conquered nations that had been pillaged and starved by the proponents of the "New Order." Steps would be taken to rehabilitate the economic situations and to re-establish world trade. In other words, the post-war period could be turned into an interval for trying out the theory of the rights of all nations which a final pact would seek to guarantee. During such a time, the Allied forces would be the world police power which most peace advocates now sanction as a necessary safeguard for any future world order.—Toledo Blade.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Leaders of United Nations Confer, Congress Votes Huge Army Fund

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE PRIME PURPOSE of Winston Churchill's third meeting with President Roosevelt was kept pretty much under cover, especially during the early days of their sessions.

They had, though, discussed the shipping problem, they had conferred with T. V. Soong, China's foreign minister, and they had announced the "object in view" as "the earliest maximum concentration of Allied war power upon the enemy, and . . . further concerting all the measures which have for some time past been on foot to develop and sustain the effort of the United Nations."

In England, "competent sources" doubted that Churchill had gone to Washington to push for a second front, believed he had asked for more U. S. help in the Middle East, even before Tobruk fell.

If the English could salvage the Middle Eastern campaign with American help, these sources believed, "second fronters" could be satisfied for a while with more extensive Commando raids and heavy bombing attacks.

Funds for Fighting.

"The only safe thing for the nation," Chairman Snyder (D-Pa) of the sub-committee on expenditures told the house, "is to assume that this war is going to last five years at the least—and then hope, pray and work to cut that period."

Minutes later the house had passed, 352 to 0, a bill of almost 43 billion dollars to outfit and equip an army of 4½ million men by July of next year.

Emphasized in the measure was mechanized striking strength, much as a navy bill of 8½ billions unanimously passed to the senate less than a week before had concentrated on floating aerial power.

But the huge appropriation bill wasn't sent on its way without some evidence that the house, although willing to shoot the works in the way of necessary appropriations, also wanted to be sure the most was being made of the money.

A military committee investigation, said a majority report, had uncovered a "sordid picture" of extravagant waste in War Department contracts. Chairman May said the investigation would be continued. "Endless red tape, reckless spending, and topheavy organization," said the report, were just a few of the faults the committee had found.

At Home

More Visitors.

The fog over the Aleutian Island was still heavy during the week, at least as far as information on Japanese activities on those stepping stones was concerned.

The Navy, at mid-week, had made only one announcement on what had happened there since a previous communique telling of damage to five Nipponese ships. Last week-end it was disclosed that army aircraft had scored bomb hits on a cruiser and sunk a transport—and that the Japanese had put forces ashore at Kiska Island, some 200 miles closer to Dutch Harbor than Attu, where they made their first landings.

And there was other evidence of Japanese activity, too. At lonely Estevan Point, reaching six miles out into the Pacific from Vancouver Island, a Japanese submarine or submarines lobbed shells at a Dominion government radio station for half an hour. Windows broken by concussion were the only damage.

Twenty-five hours later, at Seaside, Oregon, another submarine, presumably Japanese, pitched nine shells at Fort Stevens, which guards the mouth of the Columbia river. Those shells, too, fell harmlessly, but Col. Carl S. Doney, commander of the Columbia River harbor defenses, said some came close—"too damned close."

* * *

Lucky Dogs.

A dog's life—if the dog happens to be an especially useful dog—isn't always so tough. Two examples:

Sally, a Seeing Eye dog who lost weight because she couldn't bear to be away from her hospitalized master, became the first dog ever permitted to stay at New York's Bellevue hospital. When she left the hospital with her master, the strap on her harness failed by an inch to reach its accustomed notch.

Cora, a Philadelphia dog, was granted a sugar ration card when her blind master convinced the board the dog needed sugar with her special cereal diet.

* * *

Ruffled Neighbors.

The hitherto "prudently neutral" Argentina government had a showdown on relations with the Axis dumped right in its lap during the week.

First, a German submarine sunk an Argentine freighter off New York. Then President Roberto M. Ortiz, inactive for nearly two years because of illness and near-blindness, resigned, leaving full responsibility for Argentina's administration with Ramon S. Castillo, ultra-conservative until now in Axis dealings.

Castillo's foreign office announced it was protesting hotly to Germany. The foreign minister was called to appear July 2 before the Argentine chamber, to explain whether "he considers the time has arrived to place in execution all the recommendations and resolutions adopted at the Rio de Janiero conference."

Abroad

Unhappy Home Life.

In London, the house of commons prepared a reception for Winston Churchill which promised to match the heat of the Libyan battle scene.

Assured that the Prime Minister would be away "no longer than is absolutely necessary," the house awaited his discussion of the Libyan defeat, apparently not much satisfied by the statement of his deputy, Clement R. Attlee.

One important group of M.P.'s drew up a motion asserting they had "no confidence in the central direction and strategy of the war," planned to present it to the house."

Even some of the Conservative papers which had long supported Churchill had turned hostile.

* * *

Desire Under the Boot.

"I desire Germany's victory because of the Red peril," Pierre Laval told the French people on the second anniversary of the French-German armistice.

He was appealing to them to go to work in German industrial plants, offering in exchange a vague promise that Hitler would make beneficial arrangements for French prisoners of war.

They wouldn't be freed, exactly, rather they would become "free workmen."

Needlessly, Laval reiterated the bit of understandment offered in his maiden speech as chief of government:

"My presence in the government has significance which escapes nobody—that of collaboration with the Axis powers."

* * *

New Burma Road.

With drums of gasoline, engine parts and other implements of war occupying the space once taken by plush seats and fancy fittings, big Douglas planes formerly made for passenger service in the United States were carrying aid to China during the week.

Skimming over badly charted mountain peaks, flying through the fury of the summer monsoons, fighting off Japanese fighters with tommy-guns and then sneaking into the clouds, the big lumbering freighters of the U. S. Ferry Command went through.

Meanwhile the Chinese, waiting for this first trickle of aid to become a stream, had stalled at mid-week a Japanese drive to open an all-rail route from Shanghai to Singapore, had held the Japanese to minor gains on other fronts, had made some gains of their own. In some areas they used rocks, hand grenades and machine guns to stand off heavily superior troops supported by planes and heavy guns.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I have a hunch the old man will be there when the U. S. Army, led by Irving Berlin, invades Broadway next July 4th.

By old man I mean Maxwell Anderson, the playwright. By old man I mean Victor Moore, the actor, and Ernest Truex, the comedian. By old man is meant Joe Cook, the comic.

Their sons will be there. That's why. Alan Anderson, Robert Moore, Philip Truex, and Joe Cook, jr.

These sons of famous fathers are a part of the most discussed adventure that has happened to Broadway in many months. This Irving Berlin composed show has a cast of 300—all soldiers. They'll sing such ditties as "My Sargeant and I Are Buddies," and "I Left My Heart At the Stage Door Canteen." They'll pool their talent for the benefit of the United Service Organizations, and if you are able to buy a ticket it will surprise this corner. It's the main theme of conversation already. It's the talk of the bars and the cafes and restaurants.

Not only are the sons of famous fathers present. If you saw "Arsenic and Old Lace," you'll remember Tony Ross, who was the cop in that delightful opus but who has now been gobbled up by the army. Milton Rosen, ex-associate conductor for the Brooklyn symphony, and Carl Fisher, George Abbott's stage manager, are in the company.

The name of the show, "This Is the Army." The place, the Broadway theater. The time: July 4, and every day thereafter.

* * *

MAKE a note of this if you like to keep tab on little oddities out of real life—for a paragraph in a novel, perhaps, or a scene in a play.

The scene is a court room. The magistrate looks the defendant squarely in the eye and says, "What's the matter with you? Are you CRAZY?"

Off to one side a girl looks at the defendant coldly.

She whispers to her lawyer. The lawyer snaps out a snappy jibe.

What has the defendant done? Well, he's a musician. One night at a dance he became excited and tossed a burning cigaret down the front of the girl's dress. The girl was a singer. She suffered painful abdominal burns. They called the cops. That's why the judge demanded, "Are You Crazy?"

They gave him a tongue-lashing, and a sentence, which was suspended—but only after the musician's wife arose and testified that he had never done anything crazy like that before.

He was a sober young man, I can tell you, when he walked out of the judge's chamber.

M. V. C. Dept.: George Sebastian is a composer and conductor. . . . For a number of years he was hired by Stalin to arrange all musical programs broadcast by the official radio of the Soviet Union. . . . George likes coffee. . . . Anytime you see him he says, "Let's go get coffee, M. V. C. I like it best M. V. C." . . . George doesn't mind telling you what the M. C. V. stands for, if you ask him. It means "mit vip cream."

Quotes

Dr. D. D. Ewing, head of Purdue university, electrical engineering school, asks slashing of red tape: "Give our production engineers a chance, cut red tape, pork barrel strings and other fetters that hamper production and 'too little and too late' will become a forgotten phrase."

Clare Booth: "Today ours is the most beautiful, free, inspiring country in the world—a Shangri-la. Everyone else in the world thinks so, too. Even in Germany, they feel that this is the kind of country in which they would like to live."

People

Rational Soldiers.

When Brig. Gen. William R. Dear received his orders for transfer of the Medical Replacement Center at Camp Lee in Virginia to Camp Pickett, 45 miles away, he also received authorization to transport his men by truck.

He decided to march instead. The Army says his men enthusiastically fell in with the plan. The "many thousands" of soldiers marched three days.

Result: They saved an estimated 5,000 gallons of gasoline and 300,000 tire miles of rubber.

* * *

Soldier Joe.

Traveling alone for the first time since he became heavyweight champion five years ago — and even before that—Corp. Joe Louis boarded a train in New York, his destination Fort Riley, Kas., there to join a cavalry replacement unit.

At Fort Riley, Corp. Joe will complete his basic training, usually a 13-week procedure but a much-interrupted one with the champ who was busy making personal appearances at Army camps, speaking at benefits, etc. But no more.

* * *

Not-So-Lowly Weed.

Milkweed, just one of a dozen or so of the weeds and flowers mentioned as possible sources of synthetic rubber, stands almost alone in another synthetic field.

Dr. Boris Berkman, Chicago physician who has spent nine years in research on the possibilities of the plant, says it may be America's answer to the problem of the loss of kapok.

The Navy wants 1,000,000 pounds of milkweed floss for use in life jackets and as a lining for flying suits, he says. Production will begin this summer in Michigan.

In Short

Postponed: The start of regular gasoline rationing in eastern states from July 15 to July 22.

Voted: The Senate Appropriations committee, to cut off funds for the Civilian Conservation Corps. A similar vote had been returned by the House committee.

Sunk: In the Caribbean Sea, 13 United Nations merchant vessels in 12 days, sending over 300 the ship toll for the Atlantic and adjacent waters since December 7.

Appointed: William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and France, as special assistant to Secretary of the Navy Knox.

fenses sent another crashing into the desert in flames.

British headquarters in Cairo gave no indication that the battle had been joined, declaring merely that Rommel's mechanized armies, advancing 15 miles along the Mediterranean sea coast, had rolled up within 15 miles of Matruh.

"Our covering forces were in contact with the enemy's forward troops through the day," a British communique said.

As Rommel lunged forward into decisive battle, Adolf Hitler's Ukraine armies synchronized with it a violent and developing offensive below Kharkov, aimed at the Caucasus oil fields.

Latest advices, however, declared the Russians had checked the new German drive, repulsing Nazi attacks east of Kupyansk and counter-attacking at one point.

Soviet front-line dispatches said Nazi Marshal Fedor von Bock was hurling large reserves of tanks and infantry against the reinforced Red armies of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko.

"As a result of fierce battles, populated places are continually changing hands," a Red army bulletin said.

"We are inflicting heavy losses."

But the Russians acknowleged that the invaders had already hammered a dangerous wedge into Soviet lines with capture of Kupyansk, rail junction 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, and the German high command further claimed the capture of Izyum, 70 miles southeast of Kharkov.

This apparently meant that the Germans now controlled the whole triangular area between Kharkov, Izyum and Kupyansk, and were threatening their deepest pentration of the war into the far eastern Ukraine.

Dispatches from the Crimean front told of continuing bloody assault and death-stand defense in the 23-day-old battle of Sevastopol.

The Russians acknowledged that Nazi shock troops had driven momentarily into Sevastopol's northeast fortifications, but declared they had been thrown back by fierce counter-attacks.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said the Germans were moving up fresh reserves to replace some 100,000 Nazis who were reported to have fallen in the bitter siege, and said the strain of the campaign was evidenced by appearances of Axis companies and battalions where regiments and divisions previously were met.

Avalon Beauty Salon Suggests Hair Styles to Suit Your Personality

Urges Individual Coiffures for Beauty.

Unless you are one of those few fortunate women who look well despite their hair—and they really are rare—you'll find that an individual hair-style, designed especially for you, will do wonders for you.

If you really want to try the experiment of finding a coiffure which will bring out the hidden charm you possess, you'd best try Mansfield's most modern beauty shop, the Avalon Beauty Salon at 73½ North Main street.

Mrs. Mildred Ehrman, experienced with 18 years in cosmetology, operates the Avalon salon, formerly known as Reynolds' Beauty shop.

Mrs. Ehrman doesn't hold with the old school of beauty treatment in which you're asked what price you wish to pay, jammed into a chair like an article on an assembly line and left to bake beneath a dryer for hours.

"Every single permanent going out of my shop is personally inspected," says Mrs. Ehrman. "Each woman has hair differing from others and it must be given individual treatment. We try to make a woman's hair truly her crowning glory."

But permanent waves are not the only treatment you may get at the Avalon. Shampoos, scalp treatments, hair-cutting, facials, massages and manicures are available.

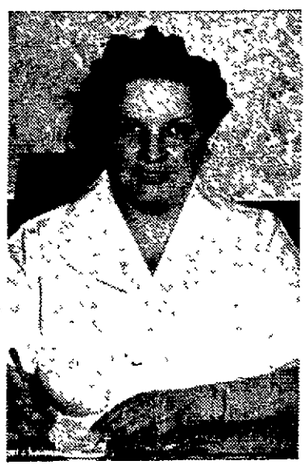
Maintains Expert Staff.

Mrs. Ehrman has a staff of five experienced beauty operators on duty from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily and on call for appointment work in the evening. Every one of the operators has had several years experience in cosmetology.

Mrs. Ehrman is not new to Mansfield women. She formerly operated the Ehrman Cosmetology school in the Walpark building and later managed her own shop. She also studied beauty culture in Columbus, Cleveland and several other cities.

Special beauty problems may be discussed with Mrs. Ehrman without any charge. She maintains that each woman needs individual styling and strives to help them meet all of their beauty problems.

The staff of the Avalon Beauty Salon, 73½ North Main street shown in the picture above, stands ready to give Mansfield women individual hair-styles to enhance their beauty. Mrs. Mildred Erhman, proprietor of the salon, has had more than 18 years experience in beauty culture. She is shown standing in the center of the upper photo. Below, Mrs. Ehrman formerly operated a cosmetology school in Mansfield and is familiar with all types of beauty treatment.



The Avalon salon has equipment to give you the most modern methods of hair waving. If you prefer the regular equipment, the machineless wave or the wireless wave, all are available.

The wireless wave is given with an ingenious machine which affords a permanent without the bother of the wires of the regular equipment nor the wariness of the machineless wave. Special curlers are pre-heated and placed in the hair. Radio waves then keep the curlers heated until the wave has been firmly established.

The Avalon has a capacity for drying 18 waves at a time. All treatments are given in a homey and cheerful atmosphere which allows the utmost in relaxation.

Treatments Relax Nerves.

"That's important, these days," says Mrs. Ehrman. "What with all the war news, its about the only place a woman can relax and enjoy herself."

It's important to keep up your good looks, too, according to Mrs. Ehrman, to help keep up the men's morale. Getting a new wave or facial is a good prescription for a better disposition, she says.

In addition to other work, the operators are expert in bleaching, dyeing or tinting hair of all colors. Dandruff treatments may also be had.

Mrs. Ehrman stresses the need for individual hair-styling and personal supervision of all permanent waves done in the salon.

"I'd rather spend a little time with a customer to satisfy her," says Mrs. Ehrman, "than to have her feel that we are not interested in the type wave she receives."

GAS COMPANY TO AID HOUSEWIVES

Service Department Aids In Judging Food Values.

The home service department of the Ohio Fuel Gas company is working overtime these days keeping Mansfield housewives informed as to how to get the most out of their foods.

Special nutrition bulletins released by the home service department are urging the use of milk this month in co-operation with the observance of National Dairy Month.

The bulletins distributed by the Ohio Fuel Gas company urge the use of milk for its nutritional benefits and suggest that milk be served as a beverage, as part of a main dish or in the making of desserts.

OPS Offers Plans To Help Construct Smaller Kitchens

Although the government has placed restrictions on building, you can still make improvements in your kitchen. Employes of the Ohio Public Service company stand ready to offer advice and plans for the renovation of your kitchen.

The small kitchen has its advantages. Everything is close together and it isn't necessary to do a lot of walking to get dinner ready.

But unless the equipment and appliances are carefully arranged, there is likely to be so much confusion that time is wasted and work takes twice as long as it should.

The Ohio Public Service company has on file at its office on South Park street several sets of plans for re-arranging your kitchen so that you can get the most good out of it.

It is as simple as can be to prepare meals in these kitchens. Every operation in preparing each meal moves forward, from the time the food supplies are brought into the house until the meal is carried into the dining room. There is no chance for lost motion or waste time.

COUPLE UNITED TODAY IN ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Miss Betty Marie Kimes and Richard P. Schmidt Wed, Have Reception at Home, Take Trip Along Great Lakes.

IN A PRETTY CEREMONY in St. Peter's Catholic church at 8 o'clock this morning, Miss Betty Marie Kimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kimes, 27 Hoffer avenue, became the bride of Richard P. Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt, 432 Fourth avenue. Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiated. Nuptial music was played by Raymond Baum, organist, preceding the exchange of vows. The altar was decorated with palms, ferns, candelabra and mixed bouquets.

Mr. Kimes gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's floor length gown was of white bridal net over white satin. It was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves ending in a point over the hands. The very full skirt was attached to a long bodice. Valencia lace trimmed the hem of the gown and the edge of the fingertip length veil. The bodice also had insertions of lace. Miss Kimes' virgin veil cascaded from a small crown of white flowers attached to a monk hat. The bride wore a necklace of pearls and carried a bouquet consisting of a white orchid encircled by pink rosebuds and baby's breath. Satin streamers extended from the bouquet.

Maid of honor was Miss Ann Schmidt, sister of the bridegroom. Her gown was of spring violet net over lavender taffeta. It was made similar to the bride's dress. Miss Schmidt wore a yellow bonnet decorated with shasta daisies and carried a bouquet of shasta daisies tied with yellow ribbon. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kimes chose a navy blue sheer frock with white accessories. An aqua dress was worn with white accessories by Mrs. Schmidt, mother of the bridegroom. Both mothers had gardenia corsages.

Ushers were Paul Kimes, brother of the bride, and Raymond Schmidt, brother of the bridegroom. Karl Richards served as best man.

A reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Refreshments were served buffet style from a long table beautifully decorated in pink and lavender appointments. Centerpiece was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. There were candelabra at each end of the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt left later on a wedding trip along the Great Lakes. For traveling, Mrs. Schmidt was attired in a light blue dress with eyelet vest and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. The couple will be at home after July 5 at 219 West Third street.

Mrs. Schmidt is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed in the office of the Ohio Brass company. Mr. Schmidt, an employe of the Tappan Stove company, is a graduate of St. Peter's high shchool.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Pletcher, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Messenger and Miss Geraldine Messenger of Marion, Mrs. C. I. Rise and Mrs. Fred Hoffman of Galion

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"How does a yellow cur always react?" Mary retorted, with an inflection in her tones that betrayed her loathing of Stephen Redfield.

"He so wanted to trample all over me that he was pulling at his collar as if it were three sizes too tight," she went on. "But you'd done your spadework so well in that note—and was I glad I'd had a chance to read it twice, once from Olina and once from her mother—that he was afraid he wouldn't be able to compete with Noel's romantic reconciliation stunt.

Mary's Number Two Smile.

"He tried to be quite high hat at first," she went on. "I simply said 'Hello, Steve' when I met him, as I always do at the theater, and he answered 'Hello, Mary', but with an air—if you know what I mean."

"I can imagine it," I told her with a grim smile.

"Then," she said, with a reminiscent grin, "I flashed one of my number two smiles on him. I didn't want to use a number one until I saw how he was going to react to the second grader. But he snatched at the bait and smiled back.

"Oh, but it was an expressive smile," she rattled on. "It dripped reproach all over the place, and there was even a touch of hidden sadness in it—a most convincing and artistic performance.

"Then he told me, with a noble, forgiving air, that I had hurt him terribly by the things I had said last night, but that he realized how upset I must have been by Noel's actions.

"I wanted to tear up that map of his with my fingernails," she said viciously, "but all I could do was to deflate his vanity a bit by telling him that in my excitement I had exaggerated Noel's murderous jealousy of him, and that you had succeeded in convincing Noel that he must not degrade himself and me by any attack upon Stephen."

"So you brought me into it," I said, with a reproachful look at her.

"I had to," she retorted defensively. "I didn't want him to think I'd done the work of leading my husband back to sanity."

"Why not?" I queried.

Her look at me this time held a touch of exasperation.

"Can't you see," she asked. "that I couldn't very well let Steve get the idea that Noel and I were especially pally, when I was trying to get it over—subtly, of course—that I was still fascinated by his personality as well as his theories?"

"At this juncture, I suppose I should tell you maternally that you ought to be ashamed of yourself," I said, "but I can't very well, for I know how much my father depends upon this contact of yours with Redfield.

"It is also most necessary that Redfield be kept unsuspicious of the espionage upon him.

"Steve's masculine vanity and his intense egotism are the keys upon which you have to play, and you evidently are bringing the right kind of tune out of them."

Makes a Dinner Date.

"I hope so," she said. "At any rate, after some chit-chat and thissing, thatting and thussing, there evolved a dinner date tomorrow night for Stevie and Olina and me. And Stevie evidently has buried the hatchet deep down."

"But that is wonderful news," I told her with elation. "Father will be so pleased."

Then I looked at her speculatively.

"I don't want to be inquisitive," I said, "but I am anxious to know what was Noel's reaction to that news—and the rest of it."

CHAPTER XVII

Kay's answer to the question, how and when, came sooner than she could hope and with amazing unexpectedness.

The problem of getting away from the Kenyon house had become an obsession with her. The house was not only an unhappy ghost, but a present and ever-living threat against what the future might hold.

Ronnie, either understandingly or by fortunate chance, did not press for the answer she knew she must give him soon. Ronnie's wife? An end to struggle and uncertainty and shifting sands—or was it the end? The beginning of another struggle, maybe. The certainty of mistake. The wish, the will to right that mistake. Kay did not know. She did not have to know, at once. Ronnie was being the gay cavalier, the good friend who runs in and out of one's life without question or quibble.

Gary Fowler? Gary was a friend too, but with a difference. He lacked Ronnie's flair for casting-off reserve. He never came to the Kenyon house without prearrangement. He had not come into the Sweet shop since that time, when Tally Holmes had been about her hurtful business. No hand at the mill worked harder or longer hours than did the young electrical engineer, Gary Fowler, who was as tireless as time and eager to get on.

* * *

Friday morning. Kay, hurrying to the Sweet shop, walked on clouds. This was the day. The day General Chocolate would lead his legions across the plate glass expanse of a shop on Center street.

Kay held the box she was carrying closer, a clothes box. In it was her new hostess gown—new today and new so many years ago. Another treasure from the past. A lavender organdie. Not a dress, really, a mass of frothy ruffles.

Bessie Munsell was doing this and that with the candies when Kay burst into the shop.

"I'm late," Kay thrust the box out of sight. "I haven't slept a wink, all night I've been seeing little brown men marching."

"Me too." Bessie flicked an imaginary speck of dust. "Look, Kay, if you have any more ideas put 'em in Hollywood, will you? Get Gary Cooper in the picture. If I have the jitters I'd rather have them about Gary than any man I've seen up to now."

Kay said, "So would I." Then she added in confusion. "I mean, Gary Cooper is my favorite actor too. He has reserve, and strength, he's not just pretty boy or what the best dressed man will wear, or let's go on the next party—Bessie, what am I saying? This premiere has gone to my head."

"You were talking about Gary—Cooper," Bessie said, wisely.

Bessie pretended not to see Kay blush.

"How about General Chocolate?" Kay asked. "Is he on the job?"

"He sure is. And ready to knock your eye out. The silvered toothpicks for guns are here too. We'd better start marching ourselves. The first thing we know the curtains will be pulled and we won't have the show ready."

"Let's go! Where's General Chocolate?"

* * *

At five o'clock that afternoon Mr. Lord said to Kay, "We're in what they now call a bottle-neck. Can't keep customers waiting too long. I've sent for a couple of men from the candy kitchen. I don't know whether they can wrap or not."

"They can handle the boxes and pack," Kay said. "Bessie and I will take care of the customers. Look at the youngsters in front of our window, Mr. Lord. Success! Our Chocolate Soldiers are on the march. I ate one myself just to be sure he tasted as good as he looks. Mr. Lord, careful, just behind you . . . a fresh supply . . . yes Bessie, the two-pound boxes are to the right under the cocoanut mounds."

At nine o'clock Bessie said to Kay, "Listen, Lavender, when I'm an old lady of ninety-one and on my death bed I'll rare up and scream 'chocolate drop!' We've been peddling chocolate drops since nine o'clock this morning. That's twelve hours. The Wages and Hours Division in Washington wouldn't like it if they heard it. It's been fun, but you begin to look kind of droopy. As for me, I'm the last gasp. When do we get a furlough from this chocolate army?"

Kay wound her arms around Bessie's shoulders. "Where have you been all this time I needed to know you?"

"I've been down by the lumber yard," Bessie said.

"I've been near the park," Kay said. "Neither of us liked where we are—I mean were. So we're on our way, going places together."

"How did I ever get the notion that you were one of those tinspoon people who think that the Country club in this town is heaven, and that because they're born that way, they can keep any candidate who wasn't born to the purple out of heaven?"

Kay said, wilting a bit on the counter, "Bessie, I feel like I've been put through a wringer. So do you. So while I'm at my low ebb and telling nothing but the truth, the heaven I go to I want you with me. Or I want to go with you. Whichever. Here's Mr. Lord. He's exhausted too. It's been a day."

"Miss Kenyon—" Lord was slightly groggy. Too much had happened in too short time. "That will be all for today. I've arranged for extra help from the candy kitchen."

"Not quite all," Bessie said. "Look who's here. Don't tell me he's chasing chocolates too."

The newcomer was the short, squat man, the candy salesman who had been so impressed with Kay's presentation of a "Kiss For Cinderella."

"So you've done it again," he said to Kay. "Mr. Lord, I've been standing outside watching what goes in your shop. Never saw anything like it. The way the kids go for those chocolate soldiers; the grown folks too. I'll bet you sold more drops today than you've gotten rid of in the last six months. If it had been a new product, new and nifty . . . but to put on a show like this one of the oldest products on the market . . . That, Mr. Lord, comes under the head of miracles in our business."

Mr. Lord nodded. "It only goes to show that smart merchandising is 90 per cent of good business. It goes to show that in business you must have imagination as well as a strong back and sound arithmetic."

"I'll say you do after what went on here today." The short squat salesman, known to the trade as Fred Jones and one of the most astute in his line, looked slightly dazed by it all.

"Where did you pick up this idea about the chocolate soldiers?" he asked Kay. "Don't tell me it was an accident, like the first one."

Kay laughed. "But it was. Mr. Lord told me about expecting a shipment of chocolate drops for a 'special' and I remembered how my father brought them home when I was a tot and made them play soldier for me. You see? The idea simply exploded in our faces."

"H-u-m. Modest as you are original. Ideas don't explode without plenty of what it takes to blown them up. Miss Kenyon, I have a proposition to put to you. How would you like to come to New York and think up ideas for National Candy Company?"

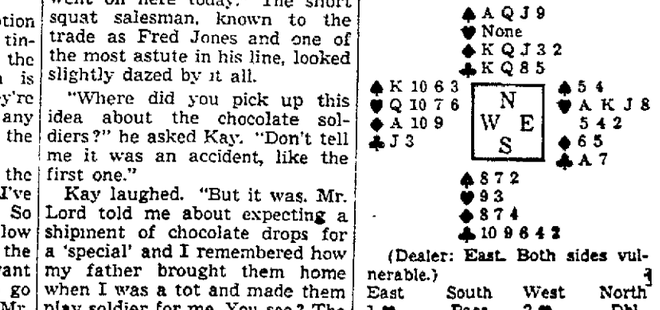
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

STRIP THE HAND FIRST

You are never going to make a keen opponent lead your tenace suit to you if you make the situation transparent to him and leave him something else to lead which will not harm his side. Your only way to compel him to co-operate is to strip the hand down so that there is nothing he can do except something you desire. That means one of two things. Either you strip his hand so he has nothing else left, or else you strip your own hand and dummy so that, if he does not lead your tenace suit, he will have to lead one which gives you a ruff in one hand and a discard opposite it.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	Dbl
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl

Not wishing to put any of his partner's side suit cards under the hammer, South led a trump. East took a second round of them, too, and then set about the building of a lead-throwing end-play. It turned out that the humble-looking club J in dummy was a vitally important card, as it enabled him to compel North to win a crucial trick which otherwise could have been taken by South.

Following perfect technique, East led a diamond to the third trick and let North win it. The latter returned his diamond K, which went to the A, and a third diamond then was ruffed by East. Next the club A was laid down and then the 7 led to the J. If South had been able to win this, he could have returned a spade through dummy, and the contract would have been beaten. But North had to take it with his K or Q, and was in the lead.

If North now returned a minor suit card, East could discard a spade on it, while ruffing in the dummy. The only alternative was a spade, but that would also limit North to one trick in the suit, setting up the K. Thus the contract was assured. If East, however, had fed that club J. to North before ruffing out the third diamond, North could have saved himself by coming back with a diamond.

Glancing through this week's Sporting News in search of items about former Mansfield Braves, I find:

That Bob "Irish" Kuzava is currently leading Mid-Atlantic league pitchers with seven victories and one defeat. Hmmmm. Last time I heard it was 7-0. He must be slippin'.

That Hank Edwards is engaged in a home run duel with Baltimore teammates Lemon and Staller in the International. Hank's stick average is now .273.

That it was a case of love's labor lost for Eddie the Mighty Man Mutryn on June 17 when he hit two home runs only to see his Wausau team of the Northern league lose to Superior 4-5. And Eddie loves labor when that labor consists of hitting home runs.

The golfers may be cancelling tournaments here and there, but not the barnyard golfers. They're still in there pitchin'.

The Buckeye State Horseshoe Pitchers Association tournament will be held July 4-5 at Buckeye lake.

I don't know whether any Mansfield pitchers will be heaving the horse slippers or not. This town used to be a hot bed of the barnyard golf sport, but the ring of the ringers hasn't made itself heard in the land here of late.

I did some pitchin' once. But my shocs got tangled. Old Tanglefoot they used to call me in those days.

Findlay is reported on the way out of the Ohio State semi-pro baseball league with the expiration of a lease on its ball park.

And the league is casting an eye down Willard way as a possible replacement for the Oilers. Willard wanted in the league at the start of the season, but filed its bid for a franchise too late and had to be content with a berth in the Northern Ohio amateur circuit.

Since the N-O plays but one game a week, and those games have been rained out with great regularity, the O-S moguls hope they can induce Willard to come over and play where it's dry.

Dodgers Out-Yank Yankees

Dem Bums Prove New Masters of Runaway.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

IT MAY NOT be a tipoff on the world series, the outcome of the pennant races, or even the coming all-star game, but the Brooklyn Dodgers have replaced the New York Yankees as the runaway team of the major leagues.

* * *

Overlooked by many fans in the excitement of all-star picking time, the transition of recent days has left the Dodgers with a National league lead three games longer than the Yankees enjoy in the American loop.

* * *

The Dodgers stretched their margin to nine and a half games, their longest of the year, yesterday by clipping the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, in ten innings. Joe Medwick went hitless to end his hitting streak at 27 games.

And in a night game at Chicago, the Yankees bowed to the White Sox 4-2. That reversal, coupled with the Boston Red Sox triumph over Cleveland, chopped another full game off the Yankee lead, leaving the world champs only six and a half games ahead of Boston. Boston beat Cleveland 3 to 2.

Al Benton tossed a six-hitter at the Philadelphia Athletics as Pinky Higgins chipped in with two doubles to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory.

* * *

The St. Louis Browns halted a four-game losing streak by rapping Buck Newsom and the Washington Senators, 8-5, in a night game as Chet Laabs and Harlond Clift drove in three runs apiece.

* * *

Cliff Melton notched his ninth win compared with five losses by holding the Pittsburgh Pirates to a half dozen safeties and contributed further to the 4-3 New York Giant cause by bagging two of his team's six hits. Five Buc errors helped the New Yorkers.

Jimmy Foxx clouted his first home run since switching to the National league, a two-run blast with two out in the ninth inning to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-4 decision over the Boston Braves. Home runs by Max West and Paul Waner kept the Braves in the game.

The St. Louis Cardinals' night contest with the tail-end Philadelphia Phils was postponed.

WILDCAT GOLFER REACHES FINALS

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(AP)— Manuel De La Torre of Northwestern university and Frank Tatum, jr., of Stanford met here today in the finals of the National Intercollegiate Golfing tournament.

De La Torre, son of a former Spanish golfing champion, defeated Bob Kuntz of Yale, 6 and 5, yesterday to gain his final berth. Tatum ousted Harold Gjolme of the University of Washington, 4 to 2, to enter the championship bracket.

Wells Takes Fourth Title

East Liverpool Vet Sets Tourney Record.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Joe M. Wells, of East Liverpool, today had his fourth annual Ohio seniors tournament championship, gained with a record performance.

Wells, who won the Ohio Golf association tourney in 1940, toured the 36 holes in 149 strokes, a record for the classic. He started the second round only a stroke ahead of J. R. Simpson, of Hamilton, and slipped behind when he lost seven strokes to par on the first five holes at Scioto Country club.

* * *

The 53-year-old ex-champ, however, hit his stride, getting birdies on the eighth and ninth and tenth holes. Wells finally birdied the 18th to go two ahead of Simpson.

* * *

The Hamilton man finished second with 151 strokes; R. A. (Bob) Stranahan, of Toledo, the defending champ, tied for third at 154 with B. T. Neal, of Columbus. Tied for the next place with 159 strokes were C Baumgartner, of Cincinnati; W. R. Hair, of Hamilton, and Raleigh Lee, of Columbus.

In addition to a trophy, Wells received a $100 war bond. An additional $900 in bonds was divided among flight and special prize winners.

PILOTS PICKED

NEW YORK—(INS)—Pilots for the International league all-star game slated at Buffalo on the night of July 8 will be Managers Bill Meyer, of Newark, and Al Vincent, of Buffalo

Girl Caddies? Okay, But Stuff Your Ears

Now that girl caddies are being employed on golf courses because of the shortage of male help, John Q. Golfer will have to watch his language when he misses that three-inch putt. Of course, cotton may do the trick. Pert Elizabeth Tucker, caddie at the Miami Beach Normandy Isle course, does her best with her fingertips as an irate golfer indulges in a fit of temperament.

Tuckers Boost League Margin

Three Golfers Tied For Medal Honors.

News-Journal B-league leading Tucker Furnitures added a full game to their pace setting margin at Possum Run with a 3-2 win over Central Fruit, while second-place Elks were dropping a 2-3 decision to Bissman's.

Moose blanked Eagles 3-0 and Mansfield Printing took a 2-0 win from Tinkey Lumbers.

* * *

Rev. Grover Swoyer, Gil Hiett and Harry Fay tied for medal honors with cards of 40.

In the only extra hole match Maurice Byrnes went two extra holes to defeat Jimmy Morgan on the eleventh green.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Twilight baseball isn't popular with the players, but it may be one answer to the questions the club owners are asking. . . . If they can continue to draw the kind of crowds they've been getting recently, it will make up for a lot of week-day afternoons when they have to include the ushers to make the crowd big enough to count. . . . At least there's one lesson they should be learning from these and the relief games—that the customers have to be coaxed, and sometimes bludgeoned to get them out in profitable numbers. . . . Bobby Feller is slated for sea duty right after the service all-star game in Cleveland.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Charles P. Ward, Detroit Free Press: "The master minds of the prize fight industry got Jack Dempsey into an unsavory mess during the last war and the master minds of the prize fight industry may get Joe Louis into a mess in this war if somebody doesn't prevail upon them to cease and desist in their master-minding."

Blackburn Slips In Hitting Race

CHICAGO —(AP)— Old man batting slump, striking indiscriminately among the American Association's top ten sluggers, finally has caught up with Joe Bestudik.

The Indianapolis third baseman continued to lead Association batsmen, averages to Thursday showed, but he slumped 15 points to .334.

* * *

Eric Tipton of Kansas City climbed to second place on a gain of six points, displacing Wayne Blackburn, another Indianapolis slugger, who dropped to fourth position. Tipton has a .329 average.

* * *

After Bestudik and Tipton in the top ten came Andy Gilbert, Louisville .322; Blackburn, .320; Huck Geary, Minneapolis, .316; Ed Vosmik, Minneapolis, .310, Don Lang, Kansas City, .310; Hal Peck, Milwaukee, .306.

ERIE TAKES VICTORY ON HOME RUN SMASH

ERIE, Pa. —(AP)— Stan Platek homered with one on in the ninth to give Erie a 6 to 5 win over Zanesville in the Mid-Atlantic league last night. Harry Keller, Zanesville second baseman, hit for the circuit with the bases empty in the seventh.

Dayton defeated Springfield 4 to 2 and took over third place from Canton whose game with Charleston was postponed.

Akron Girl Sets Tennis Record

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Tennis enthusiasts today waxed eloquent at the remarkable feat of 14-year-old Shirley Fry, who within two hours made a grand slam of all four titles in the middle states junior and girls' grass court tourney at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

* * *

The ace Akron, O., titlist was the first person in the history of the two-division event to accomplish the feat, although Boston's Sissy Madden walked off with three of the four crowns in 1940.

* * *

With no apparent effort Miss Fry took the junior crown aspirations of Ellen Zinsser, Merion Cricket club star, and blasted them, 6-3, 6-1. Without as much as leaving the court, the Akron school girl then defeated Deborah Welsh, Wettstown school, 6-1, 6-1 in the girls' division.

TOUGH TO BEAT ONCE HE CAUGHT ON

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Veteran Vanderbilt track Coach Bill Anderson describes retiring Captain Poyner Theweatt as "the most valuable track man I've ever had in the 36 years I have coached at Vanderbilt."

Thweatt was high point man at the recent Southeastern Conference track meet, tallying 11 points in winning the 220-yard low hurdles, tying for first in the high jump and placing fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles.

The Nashville youth ran the low hurdles in 23.5, two-fifths off the conference record. And until two years he had never hurdled.

Indians Edged By Boston Sox

Mel Harder Loses In Pitchers' Battle.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Indians held a precarious perch on the third-place rung today instead of being right in the shadow of the owners of second place, the Boston Red Sox.

* * *

A 3 to 2 defeat at the hands of Boston before 19,704 customers last night dropped the Tribe two and one-half games behind the visitors and left them only one contest ahead of the Tigers.

* * *

Les Fleming did his best to capture the contest, getting three singles and a double—the latter with two out in the ninth—in four trips to the plate, but his mates fared poorly with the slants of Dick Newsome. Oris Hockett's triple and Lou Boudreau's single in the seventh were the only other safeties allowed by Newsome in his pitching duel with Mel Harder, who took his sixth defeat.

The Bostons gathered in a run in the first inning when an error by Ken Keltner let Dom DiMaggio reach first, from whence he stole second and scored on two infield outs. Singles by Ulysses Lupien and Lou Finney accounted for the second run in the fourth, and Boston's final marker came in the sixth. With the bases full on Johnny Pesky's single and a pair of passes, Lupien lifted a long fly which permitted Pesky to score.

* * *

The home team's half of the seventh opened with Hockett's triple. The right fielder registered a run when Pesky, taking Keltner's smash, threw low to the plate. Jeff Heath dropped a fly to Finney but Fleming got his third single to advance Keltner, who came in on Boudreau's one-bagger. The rally ended with Ray Mack forcing Boudreau and Pinch Hitter Chubby Dean grounding out.

* * *

Dean was Cleveland's pitching choice for the second game of the Boston series today. Ken Chase, who has been idle since he won from the Indians May 5, was his mound opponent.

Par at Girard Takes Beating

Smith, Kirkwood, Byrd Tied With 64 Cards.

GIRARD —(AP)— What began as pre-tournament speculation moved into the realm of possibility today—that the world record 264 for major league golf competition might be tied or bettered in the second $5,000 Mahoning Valley open.

* * *

Mahoning's revamped par of 34-34—68 took a merry beating in the first 18 holes yesterday, the lead going to three campaigners who were four under regulation figures—Horton Smith of Pinehurst, N. C.; Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist from Abingdon, Pa., and Sam Byrd, the ex-Yankee outfielder from Ardmore, Pa.

* * *

They worked their way to the clubhouse with identical rounds of 33-31—64 to lead the field of 179, making the odds none too prohibitive on the chances of trimming the mark set by Craig Wood at Bloomfield, N. J., in winning the Metropolitan open of 1940.

In the second shot at 65 a young local pro, Jack Miskell, was tied with Lloyd Mangrum of Oakmont, Pa. Miskell shot 32-33 and Mangrum 34-31.

By registering a 31-35, defending champion Clayton Heafner of Durham, N. C., found himself bracketed at 66 with Jimmy Thomson of Del Monte, Calif., 34-32; Rod Munday of Toledo, 34-42, and Dutch Harrison of Harrisburg, Pa., who had a pair of 33's.

* * *

Back at 67 was Ben Hogan, the habitual money winner who garnered the recent Hale America and started as a favorite in the local test. His card was 35-32. With him were Herman Keiser of Akron, with the same tally, Bill Burke of Cleveland, 31-36, and a dark horse, Al Smith of Martinsville, Va., 33-34.

* * *

At par were a Pennsylvania pair, Ted Blaner of Sharon, 36-32, and R. G. Johnston of West Middlesex, 35-33.

After today's round of 18, the final 36 holes of medal play will be fought out Sunday, the winner receiving $1,000.

PRO COURT TOURNEY REACHES SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK—(INS)—J. Donald Budge, the lanky red-head from Oakland, Cal., who engineered the only grand slam in tennis history back in the days before the war, today was within just two matches of the national professional championship for 1942 and none doubted that he would make the grade on Sunday.

Budge's opponent in the semi-finals today was Wayne Sabin, of Reno, Nev., while in the other bracket, Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, and Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Cal., who played the national amateur finals last year, encountered each other.

WE DESIRE to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the death of our dear father, Mr. Joseph Stoner, to all those who sent flowers, Rev. WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane. She will be glad to render service and advice you need.

IRREGULARITY RULES MARKET PRICE SHIFT

Westinghouse Included In Group Boasting Small Advance on Board.

NEW YORK — Irregular price shifts continued to obscure trends in today's stock market proceedings.

Chrysler was off 1⅛ and lesser declines were registered for American Telephone, Bethlehem, Texas co., General Motors, Montgomery Ward and Republic Steel. Up a shade were N. Y. Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Westinghouse, Woolworth and Air Reduction.

Followers of metal stocks noted reports the steel industry was threatened with a scrap shortage owing to a slow-down in collections of this necesary material. In the Chicago district lack of scrap resulted in the suspension of two open-hearth furnaces.

Attention was given the summary of the National Lumber Manufacturers association disclosing that, for the week ended June 20, both production and new orders were under those of a year ago.

REPORTS TODAY

Grand Jury Ends Session With Probe of Cutting Case.

Although another case was added to the Richland county grand jury docket yesterday, the jury was expected to complete its session early this afternoon.

The jurors this morning began investigating the fatal shooting of Mrs. Mary Johnson, 25, colored, last week at her home at 823 Bowman street. With a number of witnesses called to testify, court officials said the investigation probably would require several hours. The slain woman's husband, John Johnson, 42, is held for second degree murder in connection with the slaying.

After finishing the murder probe, the jurors were scheduled to take up a case involving a charge of cutting to wound against Corrine Stewart, 23, colored, of 571 Lily street extension. She is accused of cutting Mrs. Elizabeth Brackins, colored, her landlady. Mrs. Brackins told officers she was slashed when she tried to break up a fight between the Stewart girl and her boy friend.

7-OCEAN FLEET BILL PASSED

Measure Providing 8 Billions For Naval Expansion Goes to FDR.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The $8,550,000,000 naval expansion bill giving the country a seven-ocean fleet was sent to the White House today by the senate.

The measure, which passed both houses of congress unanimously, authorizes the greatest aircraft carrier program ever undertaken, and recognizes the superiority of airplane striking power over that of the battleship.

Action in the upper house followed swiftly after the senate cleared the galleries to hear a confidential report from Sen David I. Walsh (D) of Mass., chairman of the naval affairs committee.

The executive session was the first since the country officially entered the war on Dec. 7 and the first on military affairs in 24 years.

Specifically, the bill adds 1,900,000 tons of combat vessels to the present authorized total of 3,749,480 tons, making a grand total of 5,299,480 tons upon completion of the building program. The navy now has only 1,009,245 tons of combat vessels in active service.

The 1,900,000 additional tons authorized will add 500,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of cruisers, and 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escort vessels.

In asking for the closed session, Walsh said.

"The bill under consideration will, of necessity, require a discussion and a presentation of policy as it pertains to battleships and aircraft carriers and, perhaps, some other factors, that ought not to be discussed in public. While rumors of that policy have been heard, they have not been accurate."

TELLS HOW SUB OFFICER AIDED SHIP SURVIVOR

Sandusky Native Says Nazi Brought His Friend To Lifeboat.

SANDUSKY —(AP)— The story of how a German submarine commander rescued his buddy from the Atlantic after the merchant ship on which they were sailing, was sunk by shellfire, was related today by Fred Ritzenthaler, 41, merchant seaman for 22 years, who has traveled around the world nine times.

Ritzenthaler said that after their vessel was sunk by gunfire, the sub captain brought his friend to one of the lifeboats and provided necessary bandages.

The seaman, a native of Sandusky, was deck engineer of the vessel.

He said that early this month when the ship was but two days out of an east coast port, the U-boat came upon the ship.

The first shell from the sub tore away the pilot house, killing the captain. The second shell fired from a three-inch gun blasted the radio operator's room.

Three of the lifeboats were launched after the order came to abandon ship, but one of the lifeboats was struck by a shell. The other two boats stayed together, while the third drifted away.

Early the next day, the sub returned towing the third lifeboat back to the other two and it was then that the wounded man was transferred by the Germans to the lifeboat.

Seventy-six hours later the survivors, 35 out of 39, were picked up by another United Nations ship and taken into port.

The German commander refused cigars offered by the Americans, Ritzenthaler said, and additional water and blankets were placed aboard the lifeboats by the Nazis, the survivor relates.

from the car by the impact. The vehicle turned over.

Six-year-old Ruth Ann Jamison of 131 Vale avenue received a fractured left leg last night when she was struck by a car operated by Paul Gemzer, 18, of Mansfield R. D. 2.

Gemzer told police that the girl had been playing with a group of children and ran from behind a parked car into the path of his vehicle.

The child was taken by Gemzer to General hospital where her condition was reported as "good" today.

R. E. Weimer, 541 South Main street, and Robert Graham of Mansfield were riding on Bowman street early today when their car dropped off the end of a Pennsylvania railroad crossing and stalled between the tracks.

Weimer and Graham tried to get the car loose but were forced to leave it when a fast passenger train appeared a few minutes later and struck the vehicle, sheriff's officers said. The car was demolished.

Lugosi plays a fiend who sacrificed other men's brides for the sake of the woman he loved. Luana Walters is among the players.

* * *

Marlene Starred.

A glamorous stage star gets herself into trouble when she totes off a baby she finds on the street in Marlene Dietrich's picture, "The Lady is Willing," showing at the park. SECRET AGENT X-9

PRINCE CAESAR, I'M GLAD YOU TRUSTED ME ENOUGH TO BRING ME TO THIS CHATEAU! WHAT GOES ON HERE?
LET ME SHOW YOU ABOUT.
STRAPPING FELLOWS... BUT I THOUGHT THERE WAS A SHORTAGE OF FARM LABOR.
THEY ARE NOT AMERICANS, THOUGH THEY HOPE SOON TO CHANGE THAT!
REFUGEES?
NOT AT ALL!
TRAINED AXIS ARMY MEN!
YOU BEGIN TO UNDERSTAND, SAVANNAH!
MEL GRAFF
THEN THE "GARDENERS" WORKING HERE ARE AXIS ARMY MEN? WHAT IS THEIR MISSION?
THEY REPRESENT AN INFILTRATION FORCE!
THEY WERE CARRIED ABOARD AXIS SUBMARINES HARASSING AMERICAN COASTWISE SHIPPING .....
..WHEN UNITED NATIONS VESSELS WERE TORPEDOED, THESE MEN. WERE TRANSFERRED TO EMPTY LIFEBOATS! THEY MADE THEIR WAY HERE SOON AFTER!
VERY SKILFUL!
PARDON THE INTRUSION, PRINCE CAESAR... THE TRUCKLOAD OF HAY HAS ARRIVED!
GOOD!
MEL GRAFF
HAVE THAT LOAD OF HAY STOWED IN THE BARN!
VERY WELL.
PRINCE CAESAR... WHY ALL THE HAY? HAVE YOU CATTLE ON THIS ESTATE?
NO! THE HAY IS AN EFFECTIVE "COVER" FOR MORE IMPORTANT GOODS! COME!
A FEW MINUTES LATER....
TAKE THAT BALE, FOR INSTANCE... IT LOOKS INNOCENT ENOUGH ON THE OUTSIDE....
MEL GRAFF
...YET, INSIDE IS A PROPELLER! ALONG WITH OTHER SIMILARLY CONCEALED PARTS, IT WILL BE ASSEMBLED INTO A BOMBER — AN AXIS BOMBER!
PRINCE CAESAR, JUST WHY ARE WE RECEIVING BOMBER PARTS HERE, HIDDEN IN BALES OF HAY?
THE DEMOCRACIES TALK OF TOKEN AIR-RAIDS ON THEIR CITIES...
THE COASTS BRISTLE WITH ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS AND WARNING DEVICES! CITIZENS ARE ORGANIZED AS SPOTTERS AND WARDENS. BUT THE FIRST RAIDS WILL COME FROM WITHIN!
ARE YOU CERTAIN THEY'VE OVERLOOKED THAT POSSIBILITY, PRINCE CAESAR?
BAH! THEY ARE TOO STUPID TO THINK OF IT!
PRINCE CAESAR, MAY I SPEAK TO YOU A MOMENT ...IN PRIVATE?
YES... OF COURSE.
MEL GRAFF
PRINCE CAESAR, A POLICE OFFICER IS APPROACHING! BE PREPARED TO SPEAK TO HIM!
NO! I WILL SEND THE GIRL!
YOU ARE CERTAIN SHE CAN BE TRUSTED? PERHAPS THIS IS HER WORK!
REMAIN BEHIND HER.. IF SHE SQUEALS, SHOOT THEM BOTH!
ER... AH.. AN OFFICER IS COMING, SAVANNAH. FIND OUT WHAT HE WANTS, BUT BE CAREFUL!
DON'T WORRY...I KNOW WHAT TO SAY, PRINCE!
THERE'S THE BELL! ANSWER IT!
POLICE OFFICER? CAN IT BE X-9?
MEL GRAFF
YES? CAN I HELP YOU, OFFICER?
WHY...AN ENEMY FLIER HAS ESCAPED FROM ONE OF THE INTERNMENT CAMPS! HE'S BEEN REPORTED IN THE VICINITY!
HE SPEAKS GOOD ENGLISH...HE'LL TRY TO PASS AS AN AMERICAN, LOOKING FOR WORK —
I'LL REPORT HIM, IF HE COMES THIS WAY
SO! AN "ENEMY" FLIER... GOOD! VERY GOOD!
I'LL GO OUT WITH THE DOGS!; WE MUST FIND HIM!
LATER... A SHORT DISTANCE OFF...
THE COP'S GONE.. THEY'LL BE EXPECTING ME TO CALL...HEY! LOOKS LIKE A FOX HUNT....
MEL GRAFF
